EQUESTDRESSAGE

Maya Markowski is a Canadian Dressage Professional based in Guelph, Ontario - a skilled dressage trainer and coach focused on the development of horses and riders through all levels of dressage. With her resilience and dedication, Maya has realized many career successes in the dressage arena in Canada and across North America including being selected twice to represent Canada at the Nations Cup in the United States. Beyond the tremendous training skills Maya has cultivated over the last 20 years, she has also developed a honed ability to create connection - in both horses and people. Steadfast in her approach to building confidence along with her insistence on the quality of fundamental development, Maya's passion also lies with bringing out the very best in all her students - horses and people alike. Her values and core beliefs are unwaveringly tied to inclusivity, positive mindset, and hard work believing everyone can not only chase but realize their dreams. So strongly tied to a sense of belonging and community, she's created an environment within her circle that has embraced 'Teamwork makes the Dream work' (J. Maxwell) as their barn slogan. Giving back to the dressage community, Maya volunteers as Chair of the prize committee as well as board member for Caledon Dressage, a not-for-profit organization that brings safe, fun, and competitive dressage shows to Ontario.
